DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 11 is objected to because of the following informalities: in line 2, ":" is missing after the word comprising. "Computer readable storage means" should start in a new line. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dolan(US 5,604,801) in view of Krajewski(US 5,590,199).

In claims 1-4, Dolan discloses receiving via the network a user's ID in (fig.5). Reading from a storage means data corresponding to the user having the received ID, which data comprises the user's private key encrypted using a key determined from identifying information of the user in (abstract, lines 7-12,col.3, lines 5-11). Dolan does not disclose sending via the network the encrypted private key, whereby the encrypted private key can be received and decrypted at the location of the user using the user's identifying information. Krajewski discloses where user receives and decrypts the encrypted key at user's site using a user's identifying information in (col.6, lines 18-35). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use Krajewski's method where decryption is done in user's site with Dolan because the user does not have to transmit sensitive information such as biometric information where it is prone to data interception by the hackers. Security of the data is greatly enhanced by keeping the data at user's site rather than transmitting it over the network.

Claim 5 different from claim 1 in that private key is destroyed at the location of the user. Dolan discloses deleting a private key after use in (abstract, lines 15-16, fig.4(b)#495).

In claim 6, Dolan discloses user entering a password in (fig.5). The examiner asserts that password can be an another form of passphrase or biometric information.

In claims 7-10, computing a hash document and encrypting the hash using the user's private key and transmitting the encrypted hash is disclosed by Dolan in (col.6, lines 1-15).

4. Claims 11-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dolan.

In claim 11, Dolan discloses respective IDs and encrypted private keys are stored in the storage in (col.3, lines 4-10). Dolan does not specifically discloses private key is encrypted with uer identifying information. However, Dolan discloses private key is enrypted with a key encrypting key. The examiner asserts that since user has the key encrypting key, it can be a user identifying information.

In claim 12, see claim rejection 6 above.

Art Unit: 2766

In claims 13-14, Dolan discloses hash function and random number stored in the storage in (fig.2, col.4, lines 20-24).

In claims 15-16,19, see claim rejection 1 above.

In claims 17-18, see claim rejection 7-10 above.

In claim 20, Dolan discloses user terminal interconnected via a network to the server in (fig.1). Dolan discloses user terminal is configured for transmitting to the server via the network an ID entered by the user in (fig.5). Receiving and decrypting an encrypted private key received via the network from the server using a user identifying key determined from a passphrase entered by the user or biometric information obtained by measuring the user is discussed in claims rejection 1-4 above.
